Going Global: Evaluating the Impact of Your Supply Chain

Richard Patenaude is Director of Client Integration and Development for Wheels Clipper. Richard rejoined the Wheels Group in 1999 as a project manager working with a variety of customers across various industry verticals and markets throughout North America. As such, has gained practical insight into the various ways companies evaluate and execute their supply chain strategies. Recently his key focus has been on developing global value-added solutions for many of Wheels Clipper's major Consumer Packaged Good clients. Richard and his team work with the key stakeholders at these companies with a strategic emphasis on seamless execution of the supply chain strategy while developing a platform to provide meaningful and actionable reporting that helps the client make strategic and tactical decisions, creating new opportunities to strengthen the bottom line.
